

Satellite radio should be allowed to continue providing local broadcasting especially the the traffic and weather channels. Commuting is a large metropolitan area, this option offers better coverage than the local radio stations. I would like to see more local programing available on satellite radio. This is a service that is paid for by subscriptions and therefore should not be up to the National Association of Broadcasters to dictate what can be aired on this service.